

TaAF wants to celebrate the people who have been part of our work.

Bradley brought his lived experience to the Let Me Move team.

His job was to help to make things more accessible for everyone.

Before joining TaAF, Bradley worked in marketing and events.

Bradley applied for a Shared Role with support from his employer.

TaAF supported Bradley to work in a way that suited him.

Confident

He felt more confident at work.

Bradley helped to promote inclusion in the outdoors.

Bradley's work helped others think about access and communication.

Managers made inclusion a shared responsibility.

Bradley helped everyone understand why lived experience is important.

He has a new job as a Training Support Officer.

Bradley's story shows that lived experience can support change.
